

Obituaries

The Ogden Surgical-Medical Society extends our sympathy to the family and friends of our colleagues who have passed on. Their presence and contribution to medicine will be momentarily missed.

Rhonda Lehr, MD, 71, left the world on March 8, 2018. She was born on May 19, 1946, and grew up in Brooklyn, New York. Dr. Lehr began medical school as a single mother at the age of 33 and has worked a psychiatric career in Utah since 1988. In her lifetime, she was elected president of the Ogden Surgical-Medical Society, Weber County Medical Society, and Utah Psychiatric Society, and she earned the honor of becoming a lifetime distinguished fellow of the American Psychiatric Association.

She is survived by her daughters, Hope and Lara, and by her grandchild, Alec.

Lawrence Michael Janeway, MD, 80, passed away on March 15, 2018. He was born on February 23, 1938 in Kansas City, Missouri. Dr. Janeway graduated from the University of Nebraska Medical Center and served his residency at the University of Alabama. He also served in the Army Medical Corps. The majority of Dr. Janeway's professional career as an orthopedic surgeon was spent in Ogden, Utah where he served in the executive and administration of clinical and charitable organizations such as Ogden Clinic, Ogden Regional Medical Center, and the St. Benedict's Foundation.

He is survived by his wife, Connie Piccolo Janeway; children: John (Ingred) Janeway, Mark (Leslie) Janeway, Jill (Ted) Hamilton; and six grandchildren: A.J., Ashley, Sydney, Jonah, Hannah, and Ella.

Steven Edward Kammeyer, MD, 71, passed away on November 3, 2018. He was born on February 6, 1947 in Ogden, Utah. Dr. Kammeyer attended medical school at the University of Utah and served his residency in San Diego on a Navy scholarship program. After 10 years in the Navy, he returned to Utah where he began his private practice in obstetrics and gynecology. He retired in March 2017.

He is survived by his wife, Adele; children: Kristine (Tim) Argent, James (Alisa) Kammeyer, Paul (Kristie) Kammeyer, Karie (Doug) Caldwell, Blair Hoxer, and Lindsey (Jared) Ohlin; as well as his mother, Kathryn; sisters, Joanne Hatch and Marie Shephard; and brother, Doug Kammeyer.

John Robert Hawkes, MD, 74, passed away on November 8, 2018. He was born on February 18, 1944 in Preston, Idaho. Dr. Hawkes graduated from Utah State University with a degree in Zoology and Chemistry. He attended medical school at the University of Utah where he became board certified in both pediatrics and anesthesia. He practiced in Logan, Utah from 1980 until his retirement in December 2009.

He is survived by his wife, Brenda; 6 children: Steven (Caroline), Brian (April), Sarah (Greg) Crosby, Darin (Kristalee), Rachel (Greg) Benchley, and Adam (Kristine); 23 grandchildren; and a brother.

Farrell Marlon Calton, MD, 88, left the world on November 2, 2018. He was born on February 17, 1930 in Salt Lake City, Utah. He enlisted in the Utah National Guard while in high school and trained at Fort Sill, Oklahoma as an artilleryman. Dr. Calton was awarded the Korean Service Medal, United Nations Service Medal, and the Purple Heart for interrupting an ambush on his outpost during his time in the Korean War. In 2014 Farrell was awarded the Ambassador for Peace Medal by the South Korean Ministry of Patriots and Veterans Affairs. After being honorably discharged, Farrell enrolled at the University of Utah. Using his GI Bill to fund his education, Farrell pursued a career as a doctor. He attended the Washington University School of Medicine where he specialized in cardiology. Under Farrell's leadership at the McKay-Dee Hospital the McKay-Dee Heart Institute became the second largest in the state of Utah.

He is survived by four children: Susan (Doug) Allen, William (Jill) Calton, Thomas Calton, and Ann Calton; 11 grandchildren; and 5 great grandchildren.

Turhan S. Dogu, MD, 94, left the world on September 21, 2018. He was born on August 9, 1924 in Bafra, Turkey. He attended medical school at Istanbul University and finished his medical training in anesthesia at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. He trained nurse anesthetists at the Magee Women's Hospital of Pittsburgh. This was followed by a general anesthesia practice at the Latrobe Area Hospital. He then saw opportunity in Ogden, Utah, when he was hired to start up the Obstetric Anesthesia department at McKay Dee Hospital, where he practiced from 1977 to 1993.

He is survived by his wife, Dawna Sessions Dogu; his children and step-children: Hikmet Loe, Mehmet Dogu, Kismet Rassmusson, Scott (Barbie) Sessions, Julie (David) Call, Mark Sessions, and Deb (Tony) Allred; 17 grandchildren; and many great grandchildren.
